PUBERTY, SEXUAL HEALTH AND RESPONSIBILITY:

STARTING THE CONVERSATION WITHOUT HAVING TO SAY A WORD

Our job is to help start a conversation between parents and teens about puberty, sexual health and responsibility. There is no other agenda.

Your job? Show up with your child and be prepared to anonymously text in questions on the night of the event. Our panel will answer your and your child's questions with accurate, age appropriate information. You can then continue the conversation with your teen regarding puberty, sexual health, sexual responsibility, and decision making. Just as important, you can do so in the context of your own family values.

WHAT GIRL TALK/BOY TALK IS NOT.

It IS NOT a sex-ed curriculum, or any kind of curriculum.

It IS NOT a prepared set of questions or information that WE think you need to know.
